STUDENTS ENGAGE IN HARVEST INGATHERING CAMPAIGN

Large Number Take Part in Field Day on Tuesday after Hearing Plans in Chapel During Week

At the close of the Harvest Ingathering field day, Tuesday, October 4, $221.18 was turned in by the nineteen bands of students and teachers who spent the day soliciting in nearby towns. Professor Wilcox estimates that between four and five hundred dollars will be turned in as a result of the day's work, as complete reports have not yet been obtained.

The band which went to Wahoo was the most successful. They returned with $53.04. Miss Tillie Osnes, a member of this band, received the highest individual amount, having solicited $19.25. The band which went to York obtained the next largest amount, which was $46.21.

Union's annual Harvest Ingathering campaign was launched Monday during the chapel period when four talks were given relative to this work. Charles McWilliams, home missionary secretary of the College View church, was the first speaker. Professor Stevens next spoke of our duty toward the Harvest Ingathering work. The entire student body was then invited by Miss Lulu Hiatt to join her Writers' Club, promising to write at least one letter soliciting funds. Miss Rochelle Philmon related some personal Harvest Ingathering experience, which brought the chapel program to a close.

The following Friday's chapel exercises continued the program, which consisted of short talks from both the faculty and student body. Elder Sidney Lindt, a missionary from China, spoke briefly of how the Harvest Ingathering work is carried on in the Orient, and told us of the value of an American ten-dollar bill in China. Miss Pearl Rees next expressed her desire to make this present campaign one hundred per cent, and "If we are Unionites with all our might, we can succeed."

Emil Sauer and Miss Myrtle Maxwell told some of their experiences in Harvest Ingathering work.

The last speaker of the morning was Professor G. C. George, who spoke of some items in connection with the workers' band.

Sabbath School Officers Present Three Goals

The newly elected officers of the Union College Sabbath school for this semester took charge of the school for the first time on Sabbath morning, September 24.

Perfect attendance, promptness, daily lesson study, and systematic offerings for missions are the main objectives, which were forcefully presented by the officers.

The plan of posting the Sabbath school programs in advance is being practised by the new officers.

Power House Explosion Frightens Laundry Workers

Workers in the laundry were badly frightened Tuesday afternoon, September 27, when the gasket blew out of the boiler in the power plant. Everett Gaines was the fireman on duty when the accident occurred. No serious results followed, although considerable noise was produced by the escaping steam. Mr. Gaines succeeded in completing the necessary repairs by one o'clock the following morning.

WEEK OF PRAYER AT COLLEGE CLOSING

Elder Bunch Gives Lecture on Astronomy and the Bible to Large Audience

The chapel was crowded on Friday evening, September 23, when Elder T. G. Bunch gave the last of his series of sermons to the college students at the close of the Week of Prayer. After his talk a large number of students and visitors testified of the blessings they had received during the week.

On Saturday evening Elder Bunch gave a lecture on "Astronomy and the Bible." A large and attentive audience heard his description of astronomy as it is explained in the Bible.

Kappa Theta Re-organized

The girls of North Hall have re-organized their Kappa Theta society for the coming year. The officers who will have charge of the society this semester are: Anita Martin, president; Genevieve Robeson, vice-president; Evelyn Taylor, secretary; Velma Milard, assistant secretary; Myrtle Maxwell and Lessie Culpepper, critics; Myra Jordan, Lucille Flyger, Rachel Weinheimer, program committee.

The purpose of the society is to keep the girls informed of the current topics of the world and to acquaint them with the best in literature, art, and music.

LAUNDRY EMPLOYEES TO WEAR UNIFORMS

White Aprons Ordered for Girls Said to Be Safer

Uniforms have been ordered for the girl employees of the college laundry, and will be here in a few days, according to Vernon Dunn, manager. The uniforms are white slip-over aprons. Mr. Dunn has definite reasons for the change. He states that they look nicer, that they are economical, and much safer, having no belts or ties of any kind to be caught in the mangle or other laundry equipment.

Twenty-three girls and four boys are employed by the laundry. The boys are talking of getting white unionalls to wear in the laundry.

The girls working in the college business office are also wearing uniforms. They have chosen for their costume orange smocks. This is not compulsory, but according to one of the girls, it gives the office a distinctive air.

FRESHMAN STRUGGLE THROUGH TEST

Only Twenty-seven Pass Grammar Examination

Out of the seventy-five freshmen taking the grammar entrance examinations for college rhetoric this fall, only twenty-seven made a passing grade of sixty-five per cent or over. In this annual examination ordinary eighth grade examination questions are given to the students; each freshman is required to receive a grade of sixty-five or over in order to be excused from attending the regular grammar review class.

Only twenty-three of the seventy-five students received a grade above seventy. One student made a grade of ninety-nine and another a grade of ninety-eight. The lowest grade received was ten per cent. The average grade of those passing the examination was exactly double the average of those failing. The former grades averaged eighty-two per cent while the latter averaged forty-one per cent.

The freshman grammar review class meets on Tuesday with an enrolment of forty-eight.

Union College students gathered in the gymnasium Saturday evening, October 1, for an informal entertainment. The first part of the program consisted of music and readings. The second part was a series of exciting games in which spelling, acrobatic stunts, and speed played important parts.

A march, led by Professor Thiel closed the evening's entertainment. Pal, his dog, took an active part in the march.

EDITORIAL

It is interesting to note the statistics on the front page regarding the freshman grammar examination grades. Nearly two-thirds of the students taking the examination received a grade lower than seventy-five. Now the examination questions are ordinary eighth grade questions, and it seems strange that most of the grades should fall so far below passing, while other papers were almost perfect. Something must be wrong! How can a student meet the requirements of a four-year high school course and still know no more about his mother tongue than the figures would indicate? Is not the knowledge of one's own language as fair a criterion of one's general education as can be found?

It might be interesting to note some of the most enlightening answers given to simple questions.

Define indicative mode. "Indicative mode is the tense of the verb." "The indicative mode shows that the speaker knows what he is trying to express." "Indicative mode is not subjunctive." "Indicative mode refers to the time in which the subject is the center. It deals mainly with verbs."

How is this for a definition of an antecedent, spelling included? "The antecedent is the word which refers back to the noun or the word it modifies," or "An antecedent is a word going before a noun."

One student gave this definition: "A relative pronoun refers to the person with a very close relation."

Here is one freshman's idea of a clause! "A clause is that part of the sentence which bears some definite relation to the whole sentence." Enlightening, isn't it?

With this material and these suggestions someone ought to arrive at some philosophical conclusion regarding the flaw in the amount of knowledge possessed by college entrance candidates.

IN THE MUSEUM

Did you know that the Union College museum is in possession of clay tablets dated 2350 B. C. that were collected from Babylonian ruins by a native Christian of Bagdad? They contain temple records and later contracts bearing the name of King Nebuchadnezzar.

Did you know that there are 325 stuffed fowls? The most interesting one is that of a mother prairie chicken with her flock of twelve.

Did you know that you may see a large wooden dish brought from the Fiji Islands out of which human flesh has been eaten by the natives? Aside from the many fossils, small animals, Mexican raincoat made of palm leaves, there is a very ancient coffin on which is a Greek inscription. Many of the specimens have been brought back by returned missionaries, and the collection is unique.

RELIGIOUS LIFE

H. F. Saxton

The committee on religious activities is making a study of the spiritual conditions and needs in our college life.

A strong feeling is expressed by members of the committee that there is need of a stronger, more frequent, and more continuous emphasis upon spiritual life than our regular routine of school program ordinarily permits. The college program with its packed schedule of classes, domestic duties, and industrial activities naturally finds the more mechanical, technical and secular interests demanding and receiving the major claim upon our time and attention. As a result of this condition into which students and teachers alike are drawn, it becomes not only possible but probable that our spiritual life will drop to a low level. In years past many individuals under similar conditions have entirely lost their Christian experience. It is felt that on this point students face the greatest dangers of their college years.

In view of these facts it would seem reasonable that students and faculty should unite in continuous effort to realize and maintain the highest degree of spirituality in the entire school. It is for our mutual good that we should do so.

The committee on religious life has spent considerable time studying various phases of our school program with reference to their bearing on the spirituality of the school as a whole. Much of what has been considered by the committee has not been crystallized into definite recommendations or become matters of faculty action. Among these considerations, however, it might be mentioned that the individual's personal interest in an effort to maintain a growing Christian experience is a matter of prime importance. Personal and daily prayer or communion with God is essential. Daily study of God's Word is also necessary. Active service in the interest of the spiritual welfare of others is also indispensable. If all will engage in these exercises and give them a first place in the daily life, much will be accomplished in the maintenance of a strong spiritual tone in our college life.

There is also need for group participation both in prayer and personal work for each other. The prayer bands and personal work bands fill a vital place. To be effective, however, and enduring they should be voluntary and spontaneous, and not created by regulation or provided as a part of a mechanical schedule. This is not to say that they are not to be a regular and permanent part of the schedule of things in which we daily or weekly interest ourselves. But it is to say that we interest ourselves in these things instead of expecting them to be a part of rules or regulations or of mechanically ordered procedures.

Miller & Paine

College View, Nebraska,
Monday, October 3, 1927.

Dear Friend:

You now are reading an invitation to enroll as a student of Union College this semester.

It is estimated that three-quarters of a million of American young people are in college this fall. Most of them are training for the work of the world. They are receiving in this training an element of leadership that will place them in the front ranks. It is just as necessary that those who are training for leadership in Christian affairs be as thoroughly qualified as those who are trained for worldly affairs. Christian education is more than a name; it is an accomplishment. We are inviting you to receive a Christian education now, and at Union College.

The thought comes to you—college has started; it is too late. But it is not too late! It is our plan here at Union College to have a week of prayer at the first of each semester. The fact of the matter is if you can come to Union now you will have missed but slightly more than one week of school. Someone suggests that his financial standing is such that he does not see clearly how he can come this semester. Won't you please give us a chance to help plan in these necessary business affairs? We feel that we are in a position to give you excellent aid in arranging for your business affairs at the college this semester. Won't you let us help you?

We feel that some of the reasons for attending Union College now are worth repeating. In the first place Union College offers opportunity for Bible study that is not excelled anywhere. We have three full time professors in the Bible department, and in addition, Professor W. W. Prescott is here as lecturer, and as director in the seminar work. Abundant provision is made for strong instruction in the study of the English Bible. And all of our other departments are equally as strong. The Superintendent of Public Instruction of the State of Nebraska recently wrote to an inquirer saying: "Union College stands high in the estimation of this office."

Our classes are small at Union College. The teachers are abundantly able to become personally acquainted with the members of their classes.

Another feature of college life at Union College that is worth noticing is the fact that our young people here come mainly from the great Middle West. Most of them come from the territory bounded on the north by Minnesota and North Dakota, and Texas on the south. None of the great American cities are included in this territory. Most of the students come from farms and small towns of this great Middle West. The degenerating influences of the large cities are not found in the experience of this group of young people.

Now as never before life's success is dependent on the degree of preparation made. We want you to come this first semester.

Already we have one hundred fifteen young women in North Hall, the women's home, and something over ninety young men in South Hall, the men's home. They, each and all, extend you a warm welcome. At least won't you let us hear from you?

Yours hopefully,

UNION COLLEGE

P.S. Of course, if you are in the grades of the work done by your state academy, or in the grades and territory of Southwestern Junior College we respectfully refer you to them. But be sure you are making advance this first semester.
